

Dear Fellow HBS alumni,

On behalf of the Harvard Business School Club of Japan, I would like to encourage you to attend the upcoming dinner with Harvard University President Drew Faust on March 16, 2010. The HBS Club of Japan represents the single largest group in Japan affiliated with Harvard, and it is important to express to the leadership at Harvard the importance of Japan, and the commitment of our alumni groups to maintaining a high profile for Harvard in Japan. We have been emphasizing to the Admissions office at HBS the importance of increasing the number of student admittees from Japan, and this is a great opportunity to continue to do so and also to demonstrate our commitment to keeping Japan an important part of the global Harvard community. This will be the first time for Drew Faust to visit Japan since becoming President of Harvard University.

Equally importantly, it should be an exciting evening to socialize with many of your HBS colleagues and enjoy dinner and conversation with other members of the Harvard community from a variety of professions.

Information on the process for signing up for the event, which will take place at the Okura Hotel from 18:30 on March 16th is attached. Guests are welcome to attend. Please note that only those who have registered and pre-paid in advance will be admitted the night of the event.

Best regards,

Jeff McNeill

President

Harvard Business School Club of Japan
