

Tokuma Shoten Presents
Harvard Business School Professor Richard H.K.Vietor
Title: "The Class That Moves The World
How Countries Compete and Challenges of Japan in 2011"
- January 11th, Tuesday -

Tokuma Shoten is pleased to announce a distinguished speaker event featuring Harvard Business School Professor Richard H.K. Vietor. Professor Richard Vietor has been teaching BGIE (Business, Government, and the International Economy) classes at Harvard Business School since 1978. His recent book, written primarily for the Japanese audience and published in Japanese ( "The Class That Moves The World ( 「ハーバードの世界を動かす授業」 <http://alturl.com/k8nms> " ). It ranked number one among business/economic books in major book stores in Japan. In this book, Professor Vietor talks about how essential it is to have national strategies to survive in this global world. Specifically speaking, he touched upon Japan - "The countries I worry about .. are Japan and the United States".

An extraordinary opportunity to hear from Professor Richard Vietor first hand on his latest thoughts directly on where this world is heading to - at this event supported by Tokyo 21c Club and GARP.

And you are welcome to raise questions to Professor Vietor in Q&A session. Coffee and tea with light finger food will be offered - Professor Vietor is planning to join prior to the presentation.
